2011-2012 RELEASE OF LIABILITY/INFORMED CONSENT FORM

DEAR SUMMER CAMP PARENT,

Bob Jones University (BJU) frequently takes photos of recognized university activities in which your son's or daughter's photo may appear. The photos are used for a variety of internal purposes, such as recruiting and training materials for camp counselors and directors. In addition, they may be used for external purposes, such as promotional literature, summer camp brochures and advertisements. We request your permission to use your son's or daughter's photo (not name) for university purposes or for external release.

BJU is sensitive to and respectful of your son's/daughter's rights in the areas of privacy and publicity. Therefore, BJU will not release a photo of your son or daughter without a parent's/legal guardian's informed written consent on file.

The right of privacy of information for minors enables parents to control what information is collected about their child online or in print. Operators of websites and businesses that either focus on children or knowingly collect personal information from children are required to post privacy policies, obtain parental consent before collecting information from children, allow parents to determine how such information is used and provide the opportunity to parents to opt out of future information collection from their child.

The right of publicity is defined as the right of every individual to control any commercial use of his or her name, image, likeness, voice, signature, photograph, gestures, distinctive appearances, mannerisms or some other aspect of identity, limited (under U.S. law) by the First Amendment. The right of publicity restricts BJU from using an individual's information for commercial profit.

A parent or legal guardian reserves the right to revoke at any time the consent to BJU to publish information about a child.

Please check the appropriate box below and return this form along with the Summer Camp Reservation Form:

- I, the parent/guardian, hereby grant BJU my consent to the release of information in the above listed circumstances only.
- I, the parent/guardian, do not grant BJU my consent to the release of information in the above listed circumstances.
